

With all the changes...can you afford not to be part of the IRRV Forum service?

At the Institute, we are extremely aware that as budgets become tighter and tighter, all expenditure comes under scrutiny, particularly subscriptions to external services.

To help managers to justify support of the IRRV Forum Service, we have produced a Business Case which shows clearly the value of the service and how you cannot afford to be without it.

As a senior manager in Benefits/Revenues you may find yourself regularly asking the same questions...

There are so many changes in Revenues and Benefits so how can I keep on top of everything that's going on?

The IRRV Forum Service quarterly regional updates sum up all the latest happenings in Revenues and Benefits in a day. The regional nature of the Forums means you reduce travel costs and time out of the office. The technical update given by our expert speaker, David Airey covers the latest developments in procedures and legislation. David's experience is extensive and thorough, and he is often asked to speak and advise on matters affecting Revenues and Benefits by fellow Professional bodies and by Government Departments. Plus the IRRV is the Forum service chosen as a platform for Government Departments and associated bodies to advise practitioners.

What about changes that happen in between quarterly meetings?

The meetings are supplemented by unlimited attendance at topical webinars which cover topical subjects throughout the subscription year. All staff can benefit from webinars so you receive detailed information on the most topical issues without having to leave the office.

Additionally IRRV Forum Service members receive weekly electronic alerts that bring to your attention all the latest developments across Revenues and Benefits, straight to your inbox.

With everything going on, how can I be sure that I haven't missed something important and how can I get my hands on the right information when I need it?

By the very nature of the IRRV Forum Service, it is a platform for discussion on Revenues and Benefits issues at both a national and local level. There are over 200 plus authorities that subscribe to the Service, who are keen to keep up to date and share best practice with fellow members.

Where can I go to get independent advice?

The ever popular Technical Query Service is a resource that you can use to submit your own Technical Queries. Forum Members submit Technical Queries online and you will receive an answer within 14 days (often much sooner). Forum Members can also peruse Technical Queries going back over 10 years in the online library of subject indexed Technical Queries.

Why choose the IRRV Forum Service ?

It's much cheaper than alternative providers of similar services and we feel offers much better value for money. Plus the Institute operates in a 'not for profit' capacity and so your subscription is put back into the profession.

So, subscribing to the IRRV Forum Service could save me a lot of money?

The Forum meetings, webinars and electronic alerts coupled with the technical question service and instant access to over 200 other member authorities we wonder how you can afford NOT to be members of the IRRV Forum Service.
